Dear Rijalda,

Thank you very much for your message and for your interest in our work.

I'm afraid we won't be able to assist with the specific request you outlined. Europol does not hold consolidated statistics by crime area, as not all cases are referred to us and we therefore cannot provide reliable figures on a criminal phenomenon.

We only have visibility on the cases referred to Europol that involve two or more EU Member States. We do not maintain national overviews or country-specific information. For accurate figures on any given criminal phenomenon, I recommend you reach out to national law enforcement and/or judicial authorities (also at a ministerial level).

For a general overview on what we do, please do check out our EU Serious and Organised Crime Threat Assessment \(EU-SOCTA\).

Thank you again for reaching out, and please don't hesitate to contact us for any future queries.

Kind regards,

Thomas

Message

Respected Sir/Madam,

I am reaching out as a journalist from Istinomjer, a fact-checking media platform focused on verifying public claims.

I am writing to kindly inquire whether Europol possesses or publishes any official statistical data, reports, or analyses concerning sexual offences, particularly rape cases, within Europe.

More specifically, I would like to know whether Europol collects or maintains any data related to the involvement of migrant populations in such offences, whether as suspects, offenders, or within broader criminological analyses.

If such information exists, I would appreciate receiving any publicly available reports, datasets, studies, or references relevant to this topic.

I already have found Annual Reports of European Migrant Smuggling Center, but data in those reports are not suitable for my research.

Thank you very much for your time and assistance. I appreciate any guidance or information you may be able to provide.

Kind regards,

Rijalda Ramusović

I accept the terms and conditions
